

NOTICE TO FARMERS AND BUILDERS

The Farmers' Co-Operative Hardware Company has been thoroughly organized, and purchased the immense stock of the Rempel-Brown Hardware Store on South Mulberry Street, Logan, Ohio. We have added a large stock to the already big store, and are prepared now to meet the customer. The name of this company was not instituted to catch the farmer and builder with the name alone, but it means to the farmer and builder just what it says—"CO-OPERATION." This company buys from the manufacturer at the "big order" price. We skip the middle man or jobber, and give the farmer and builder that profit. In our store and ware-rooms is the most complete and best stock of Farm Implements and Builders' Materials in the Valley, and when you come to price them you will find, as we say, that we have co-operated with you and given you the benefit of our close buying at Manufacturer's prices. The members of this company are farmers that know what the prices ought to be, and know how the farmer and the builder ought to be treated and what is right to ask him for necessary materials, making for the company just an operating profit on the sales.

To the small farmer and the small builder with limited means we are ready to extend a greeting that will help him to get along. We do not seek to take his whole place or his profits for years, to furnish him the necessary tools to work with, but we are his friend, his brother and are ready to give him the best of it and the bargains he must have to get along. COME TO SEE US.

Graduation

The custom of gift giving at graduation time is a very pretty one. When a youth or maid passes from school to college, to the work of an every day world, it is an event of a life-time—surely an occasion that well deserves being remembered.

So, if there is a son or daughter, a favored nephew or niece, or anyone that you desire to remember on graduation day this year, we trust you will remember our preparedness to serve you. We have the kind of jewelry that makes most acceptable graduation presents—and we would be most happy to place the assortment before you.

8757 Drunkards.

New York, May 19.—There are at least 8,757 common drunkards in Manhattan and the Bronx, according to a census taken by the officials of Bellevue and allied hospitals. Of these, 6,127 are chronic drunkards, men and women who are always more or less under the influence of liquor, never drawing a really sober breath. They are virtually a charge on the community.

All the worst cases go to Bellevue 8,204, of whom 6,024 were chronic. Gouverneur got 225, of whom 92 were chronic.

There is, apparently, the officials say, less hard drinking in Harlem than in the lower part of Manhattan, and hardly any at all in the Bronx. The Harlem hospital treated only 117 drunkards, of whom but eight are chronic. In the Fordham hospital, which covers the Bronx, there were all told only fifty-five drunkards under treatment, of whom only three were habitually addicted to excessive indulgence.

Drinking does not seem to be such a terribly fatal indulgence. Out of over 6,000 chronic cases at Bellevue, only 260 died—less than 4 per cent. The mortality in tuberculosis is 25 per cent. The mortality in cancer is 75 per cent.

March is a bad time for drunkards. More of them die then than in any other month. The hospital surgeons say it is because the victims have been worn out by the hardship of the winter season.

Of the 260 chronics that died at Bellevue, only forty-two were females.

Hello, Bill.

(Marion Mirror.)

Our good friend, the editor of the Democrat-Sentinel of Logan, publishes as editorial some strong statements on public matters "by Vespasian Warner United States Senator from Missouri." The sentiment expressed is all right. It is good and strong and democratic but Col. Dollison has his author mixed. Vespasian Warner is from Illinois and is Commissioner of Pensions. The Missouri Warner's front name is "Bill," or "Major" will do as well. If the Logan editor needs him he will find him over in the Senate. He is a man with a big head, shaggy hair, carries a rebel bullet or two in his body or the furrows of them, and when stirred up will fight. He generally votes right on public matters and is one of the men who will not be extreme in his demands for popular rights yet will try to maintain this government of the people for the people. He is a staunch friend of the President.

Announcement.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT-SENTINEL:—I hereby announce my name for the nomination of Indiana Director of Hocking County at the Democratic primary election.
